CERES Cafe in Brunswick has signed on to take part in the Drink For Change campaign launched last Tuesday.

For one week, customers are invited to donate change for their complimentary water.

The money raised will go towards initiatives to help save water.

Cafe co-managers Greg Jordan and Dave Major said they were confident customers would respond well to the initiative.

"They are very aware of Melbourne's water-supply problems and that we need to start coming up with solutions," Mr Jordan said.

"I'm sure everyone will get behind it."

Mr Major said they were pleased to be involved in raising awareness on water-supply issues.

Topping up: Dave Major is confident Ceres Cafe customers will get behind a cause to save water.

"We were invited to take part and we thought it was a great idea straight away," he said.

Mr Jordan said people tended to take water for granted.

"They just need to realise that it doesn't fall from the sky as much as it used to."
